Basis for processing personal data

The controller collects and processes personal data to perform recruitment activities and promote the employment of the personnel. The processing of the personal data is based on the legitimate interest and the candidate also provides their consent to the processing of the sent personal data by sending their application.

A background clarification concerning the job applicant, pursuant to a separately issued written consent, may be commissioned if there are grounds for commissioning the background clarification based on the work tasks. Such work tasks include, for example, handling of air cargo.

A suitability assessment concerning the job applicant, pursuant to a separately issued written consent, may be commissioned if there are grounds for commissioning the suitability assessment based on the work tasks. The suitability assessment is always performed by a certified and reliable operator.

By sending the job application to Kaukokiito or filling out Kaukokiito's open application, the applicant gives consent to the processing of their personal data in accordance with this Privacy Statement.

Basis of legitimate interest

The processing of the data is based on the legitimate interest.

With the help of the provided personal data, the job applicant can improve their chances of finding employment. The applicant can withdraw their data by reporting this to: tietosuoja@kaukokiito.fi

Recipients and recipient groups

When recruiting, the controller collects personal data to the TalentAdore VRA recruitment system.

The controllers of the shared register only process applications sent to their respective companies as well as possible open applications and personal data included in them. While processing, each company complies with the Data Protection Act (1050/2018) and the General Data Protection Regulation (679/2016). There is a separate data protection agreement between the controllers of the shared register.

Personal data is processed by persons participating in the controllers' recruitment as well as possible third parties selected to participate in the recruitment by the controller, where applicable.

In addition, personal data is processed by the controller's service provider, which provides the controller with the technical platform for implementing the recruitment. Other possible processors of personal data include, for example, different auxiliary recruitment systems.

Consent

The processing is based on the legitimate interest. Consent is not required.

Data content of the register

The personal data register includes the following information:

- First name and last name of the person
- Date of birth
- Email address
- Postal address
- Telephone number
- Work history
- Education information Possibly also:
- Picture
- Reference information
- Demonstration of skills

Possible preferences of the applicant:

- Form of the employment relationship
- Working hours
- Working location
- Salary requirement

Also possible additional information essential for the recruitment or other information provided in the application by the applicant.

Regular sources of information

The data in the register is provided by data subjects (applicants) themselves.

Upon the applicant's consent, information can also be obtained from other sources, such as from a referee or authorities.

A suitability assessment may also be commissioned with the applicant's separate consent.

A security clearance may also be commissioned with the applicant's separate consent if the job description requires this.

Personal data retention period

As a rule, the data in the recruitment register is retained for twelve (12) months from the recording date of the application. In certain situations, the personal data may be retained for a longer period. In such a situation, a separate consent for retaining the data for a longer period is requested from the applicant.

In Talent Community, personal data is always stored for twelve (12) months at a time.

Regular transfers of information

The data in the register is only disclosed to the processors of the register and to parties which are essential for the recruitment.

Data transfer outside the EU or EEA

Personal data is mainly processed in the EU/EEA area.

In certain situations, personal data may be technically processed also outside the EU/EEA area. In such a case, the service provider ensures that the personal data is processed in accordance with the requirements of the General Data Protection Regulation and that the processing pursuant to the Regulation is agreed upon with data processing agreements required by the Regulation.

Principles of registry protection A: Manual material

Personal data is mainly stored and processed electronically. Individual applications printed to support recruitment are stored out of the reach of unauthorised persons and the copies are disposed of after the recruitment process.

Principles of register protection B: Electronic material

Personal data is stored on the service provider's servers, which are protected in accordance with the common practices in the sector, the provisions and principles of the Data Protection Act and the orders of the authorities. The servers are located in the EU area. The data is mainly stored and processed electronically.

The collected and processed personal data is kept confidential and not disclosed to anyone other than those who need them in their work or confidentially and in a limited manner in accordance with service agreements to the controller's customers.

Access to personal data is safeguarded with user-specific IDs, passwords and access rights. The data in the register is only accessed by those who participate in the recruitment process. If the person has saved personal data in the controller's recruitment system, the only purpose of the data processing is to serve the measures required by the recruitment.

The service provider is responsible for the technical and secure protection. For example, the service provider may be forced to process personal data in connection with technical clarifications. The employees of the service provider have signed non-disclosure agreements and undertaken to process personal data in a secure and confidential manner and only for the purpose of providing the service.

Automatic processing and profiling

The personal data in the register is not used for automatic decision making; recruitment decisions are always made by a person.

Inspection right, i.e. the right to get access to personal data

Data subjects have the right to access the information that has been registered about them. The right of access request must be submitted in writing by contacting the company's customer service or register contact person in Finnish or in English. The right of access request must be signed.

The data subject has the right to prohibit the use and disclosure of their information for direct advertising, remote selling, direct marketing as well as marketing and opinion research. Contacts: tietosuoja@kaukokiito.fi

The right to transfer data from one system to another

For the parts that the data subject has provided data to the customer register and the data processed based on the data subject's consent or assignment, the data subject has the right to receive this kind of data and also the right to transfer this data to another controller.

The right to demand correction of information

Personal data saved in the register which is incorrect, unnecessary, incomplete or outdated in terms of the purpose of the processing must be rectified, removed or supplemented.

The personally signed request for rectification must be submitted in writing to the company's customer service or the contact person of the personal data register.

The request must specify which data is requested to be rectified and on what grounds. The data is rectified without undue delay.

The rectification of the data is reported to the party from which the incorrect data was obtained or disclosed to. The person responsible for the register provides a written certificate of the refusal to rectify the data, which states the reasons for the refusal. The party concerned may refer the refusal to the Data Protection Ombudsman for a decision.
